DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-23 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Fuchs et al. (Pub. No. 2004/0019542 A1 filed July 26, 2002, hereinafter Fuchs).

4. Regarding Claims 1, 13, 15, 18, and 20-23, Fuchs teaches a timesheet reporting and extraction system and method. The method and associated system for a timesheet reporting and extraction system as taught or suggested by Fuchs includes:

a date field configured to display a date (figure 3, element 320, paragraph 0061); a start field configured to display a starting time of a time entry (figure 3, element 325, paragraph 0061); a stop field configured to display an ending time of the time entry (figure 3, element 330, paragraph 0061); a description field configured to display a description of the time entry (figure 7, element 715, paragraph 0086); and at least one code field configured to display at least one code assigned to the time entry (figure 7, element 725, 'Code – WRK', paragraph 0086, element 1185, paragraph 0092); a selector movable between each of the plurality of fields (paragraph 0054-0056); and a first actuator configured to perform at least one of a plurality of functions upon being actuated depending upon which of a plurality of fields the selector is located (paragraphs 0057-0059); a plurality of fields configured to display different types of time entry data (figure 840 and 845, paragraph 0087).

5. Regarding Claim 2, Fuchs teaches a current date in the date field (figure 6, element 630, paragraph 0083); enters a current system time in the start field corresponding to the date field (figure 3, element 325, paragraph 0061); enters the current system time plus a preselected time increment in the stop field corresponding to the start field (figure 3, element 325, paragraph 0061, figure 7, element 725, paragraph 0086); and moves the selector to the stop field corresponding to the start field (paragraph 0054-0056).

6. Regarding Claim 3, Fuchs teaches the first actuator enters a current system time in the start field when the selector is positioned in the start field (paragraphs 0054-0059, figure 3, element 325, paragraph 0061, figure 7, element 725, paragraph 0086).

7. Regarding Claim 4, Fuchs teaches the first actuator records a preceding stop time in the start field when the selector is in the start field (figure 3, element 325, paragraph 0061, figure 7, element 725, paragraph 0086, figure 840 and 845, paragraph 0087).

Art Unit: 2167

8. Regarding Claim 5, Fuchs teaches the first actuator copies data from at least one code field of a first time entry to at least one corresponding code field of a second time entry upon actuation of the first actuator (figure 14, elements 1510, 1520, 1527, 1540, 1545, 1550, 1555, etc.).
9. Regarding Claim 6, Fuchs teaches the first actuator copies data from the description field of a first time entry to the description field of a second time entry upon actuation of the first actuator (figure 14, elements 1510, 1520, 1527, 1540, 1545, 1550, 1555, etc.).
10. Regarding Claim 7, Fuchs teaches all of the fields are simultaneously displayed (figure 2, element 245, paragraphs 0052-0058, 0086, and 0087).
11. Regarding Claim 8, Fuchs teaches input configured to record data in one of the plurality of fields in which the selector is positioned (paragraphs 0054-0056, figure 840 and 845, paragraph 0087).
12. Regarding Claim 9, Fuchs teaches the input is selected from a keyboard and a preceding field entry (paragraphs 0042-0043, figure 840 and 845, paragraph 0087).
13. Regarding Claims 10 and 14, Fuchs teaches an entry hours field configured to display an elapsed time between a corresponding start time and a corresponding stop time (paragraph 0086).
14. Regarding Claim 11, Fuchs teaches the system is configured to adjust the elapsed time based upon a pre-selected formula (paragraph 0086).

Art Unit: 2167

15. Regarding claim 12, the limitations of this claim has been noted in the rejection of claims 1, 7, 18, and 20-23 presente above. It is therefore rejected as set forth above.

16. Regarding Claim 16, Fuchs teaches the second actuator provides separate sums for billable and non-billable time for the selected date upon being activated (paragraph 0084, figure 7, elements 725, 730, and 735, paragraph 0086, and paragraph 0097).

17. Regarding Claim 17, Fuchs teaches the second actuator additionally increments a first yearly hourly total by the first daily hourly total upon being activated (paragraphs 0091-0093).

18. Regarding Claim 19, Fuchs teaches a plurality of fields configured to display time related information (figure 3, element 325, paragraph 0061, figure 840 and 845, paragraph 0087); means for selecting a first one of the plurality of fields (figure 3, element 325, paragraph 0061): and means for entering time related information in a second one of the plurality of fields based upon the selected first one of the plurality of fields and in response to actuation of an actuator (figure 3, element 325, paragraph 0061 and 0057-0059, figure 7, element 715, paragraph 0086, figure 840 and 845, paragraph 0087)
